The person called "workintonmahnighcheese" asks if Alifantis is burying a body. Look what's on his Instagram.

Picture of a child sized coffin. This is creepy.

Also remeber the Alifantis “killroom” picture?

Comet Ping Pong
Bathroom Door

A photograph of a long, narrow, dimly lit room, likely a refrigerated storage area. The walls are made of metal or concrete. A single light fixture hangs from the ceiling at the far end. The text "Enormous Refrigerated room Under Comet Ping Pong" is overlaid on the bottom left of the image. To the right, there is a social media post by "jimmycomet" with 25 likes and posted 88 weeks ago. The post contains several comments from other users, including "mochef103", "gordyspicklejar", "werkinonmahnighcheese", "nilaylawson", "jimmycomet", "llewhinkes", "sayhoeta", "brynafrayda", and "victorialynnreis". There is also a link to "Comet Ping Pong Bathroom Door".

Workingonmahnighcheese says #killroom. The same person who posted a picture of a child sized coffin. Also he posted a picture with a coffin and it says “kill room” on it.

In this picture workinonmahnighcheese mentions he has a creepy space that is designated as a kill room.

This picture shows a room. There is a table that looks like an alter.
Adamfirstofmen says #killroom. Same as workingonmahnighcheese said in the Alifantis room picture.
Is this the “killroom” he was referring to?

This picture is from a buisness inside Pajama factory.

The screenshot shows the front page of the Sun-Gazette newspaper. At the top, there are navigation links for "HOME", "CLASSIFIEDS", "JOBS", and "SALES". The main title "SUN-GAZETTE" is prominently displayed. Below it, a sub-headline reads "Body found in Pajama Factory". A sidebar on the left includes "POLICE, FIRE & COURT" and "SHARE THIS STORY". The main article text states: "Hours before city codes officials were planning to do a surprise inspection of the Pajama Factory on Park Avenue on Thursday, a young South Williamsport woman was discovered dead in a bed inside a second-floor studio, city police said." Below the article are social sharing icons for Facebook ("SHARE") and Twitter ("TWEET"). To the right of the article is a sidebar with icons for email and print, and a quote: "'She died there sometime during the night' after entering the factory at 1307 Park".

Body of a dead woman was found in the Pajama factory hours before a surprise inspection was going to take place. Why would there be a dead body just lying on a bed in a factory? This is strange.

The screenshot shows a local sourcing advertisement. On the left, there is a photograph of a bar of soap with a skull embossed on it, labeled "ADIPOCERE SOAP". To the right of the image, the text reads: "Sustainable ingredients are one of the things we're passionate about. That's why we create local partnerships when we can for raw materials." Below this, there is a call-to-action button with the text "Got Questions? Wanna partner?" and a "Contact Us" link.

The smith steel store sells "adipocere" soap. You can see a skull on it.

The screenshot shows a Google search results page for the query "adipocere". The search bar contains the term "adipocere". Below the search bar are filter options: "All", "Images", "Shopping", "Videos", "News", "More", and "Search tools". The text "About 166,000 results (0.58 seconds)" is displayed. The first result is a dictionary definition of "adipocere": "ad·i·po·cere /'adəpōsir/ noun a grayish waxy substance formed by the decomposition of soft tissue in dead bodies subjected to moisture." Below the definition is a link to "Translations, word origin, and more definitions".

Why is this steel company making soap out of substance produced on deadly decomposing bodies? That is sick and psychotic. Something is not right about this place.
